Construct AlertGenerator with Patient object to load patient data of thresholds for blood pressure and heart rate. "evaluateData" method compares real-time PatientData with patient thresholds. Initial Alert object. If certain number reached, instantiate certain alert type and pass on patient information. Alert object will initial AlertManager object with alert object. AlertManager object will perform sendAlert method based on alert type and information to send alert to certain doctor.